

Virtual Tomorrow

The Adventures of Sara Lockhart

Virtual Tomorrow

Ashley Winckel

Story Development

Illustration

Game Design

Layout Editor

Kaitlyn Dorofy

Story Development

Website Design

Comic Colorization

3D Model Design

About the Project

Welcome to our Transmedia Storytelling final project. At the beginning of the semester we were given the opportunity to create our own story and to tell it the best way we see fit. This was a great opportunity for us to push our knowledge and to learn new things. However, not many are aware of what Transmedia Storytelling is. Transmedia Storytelling is when a story is told across many forms of media. That includes movies, games, web, social media and photos.

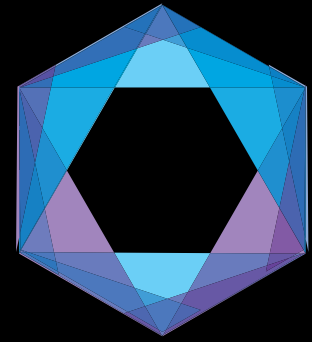

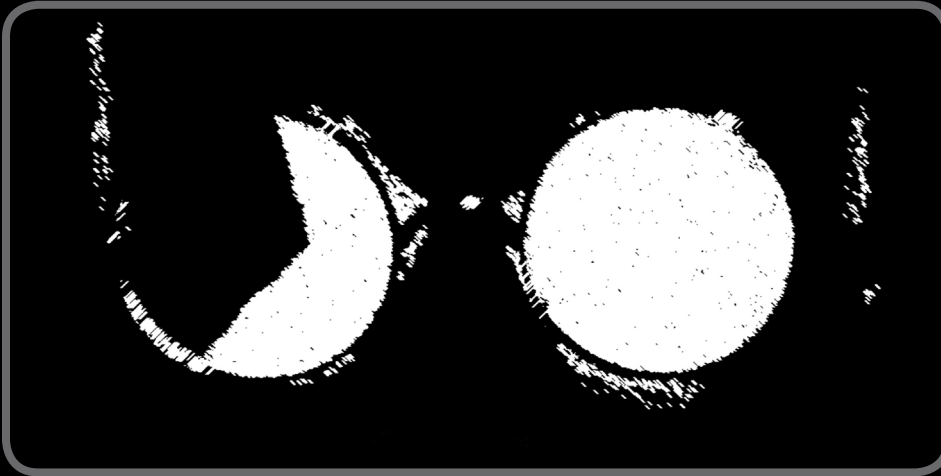

Our project is Virtual Tomorrow, which we are so happy to release. With the constant development of our story, we have many components to help you get involved in Sara's world. You can check out Sara's blog on our website, have discussions about the characters or other features in our forum, read the comics, play the game and even own a 3D printed statue of Sara herself. You can also view behind the scenes images on our Instagram account, virtualtomorrow.

Special Thanks...

We would like to thank those who helped us with this project, including Elena Fedorovskaya, Meredith Davenport, Christopher Hamilton, Graham Anthony, Alan Gesek, Eric Laux, Michael Riordan and John Eldridge. We are grateful for all the help with this Transmedia Project.

Welcome
Agent!

MicroForce

The year is 2276 and the world is no longer the same. About 20 years ago the Big Shift happened. Asia and Western Europe shifted and collided with North America. Since then, the culture has changed and many places are still in destruction except for one place, Magnetic City. The government began to focus on technology to help save the country and Magnetic City has become the most technologically advanced city in the world.

As with any great new thing, there is always someone trying to destroy it or take it away. One company that has made an impact in the rest of the world has opened up in Magnetic City and is now trying to steal ideas from the government and corrupt the city. This company is known as LeBlondie Technologies, Inc. They have many private and secret facilities setup for illegal experiments with stolen technology.

We are a highly classified organization whose mission is to protect the city from outside dangers and organizations like LeBlondie Technologies, Inc.

If you are up for the task Agent then join us in our fight to protect the city and the people from corruption.

In the year 2276

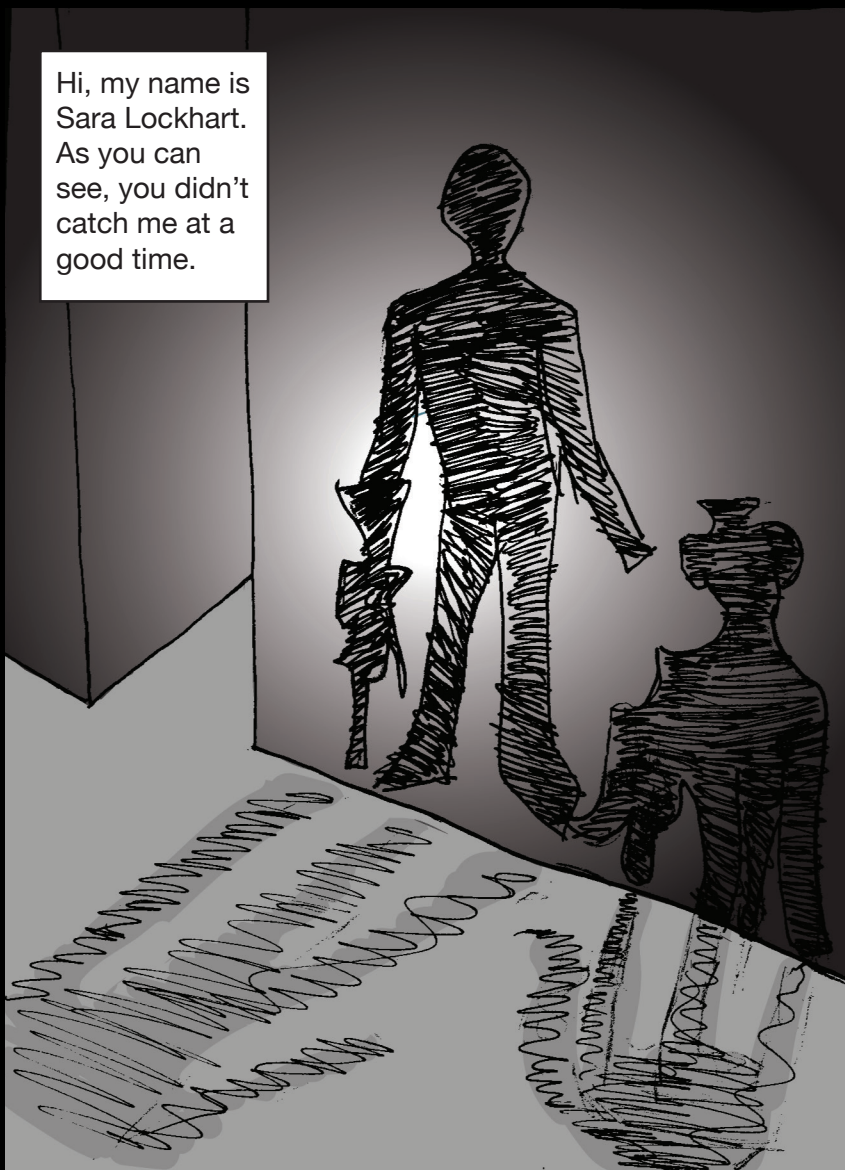

All Clear,
Sir.
HISSSSS

CLINK!

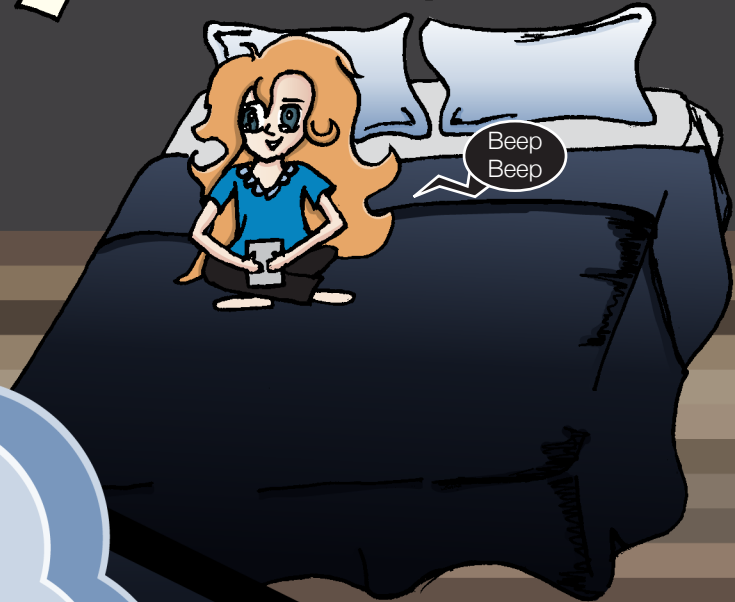

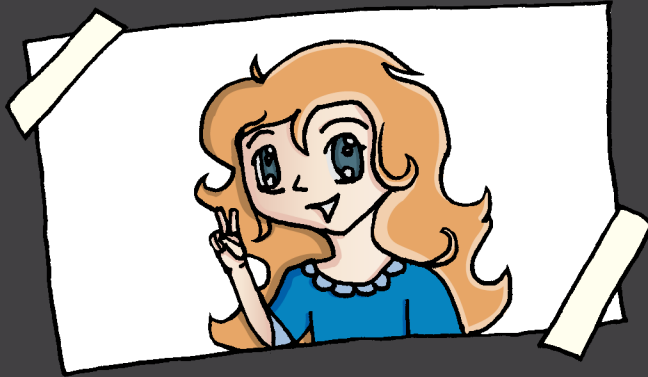

Hi, my name is Sara Lockhart.
As you can see, you didn't catch me at a good time.

How Interesting?

But, lets go back so you understand. When I was little weird things happened a lot.

At first, I was very naive of my abilities. I thought they were a game.

As I got older, I started to test my abilities.

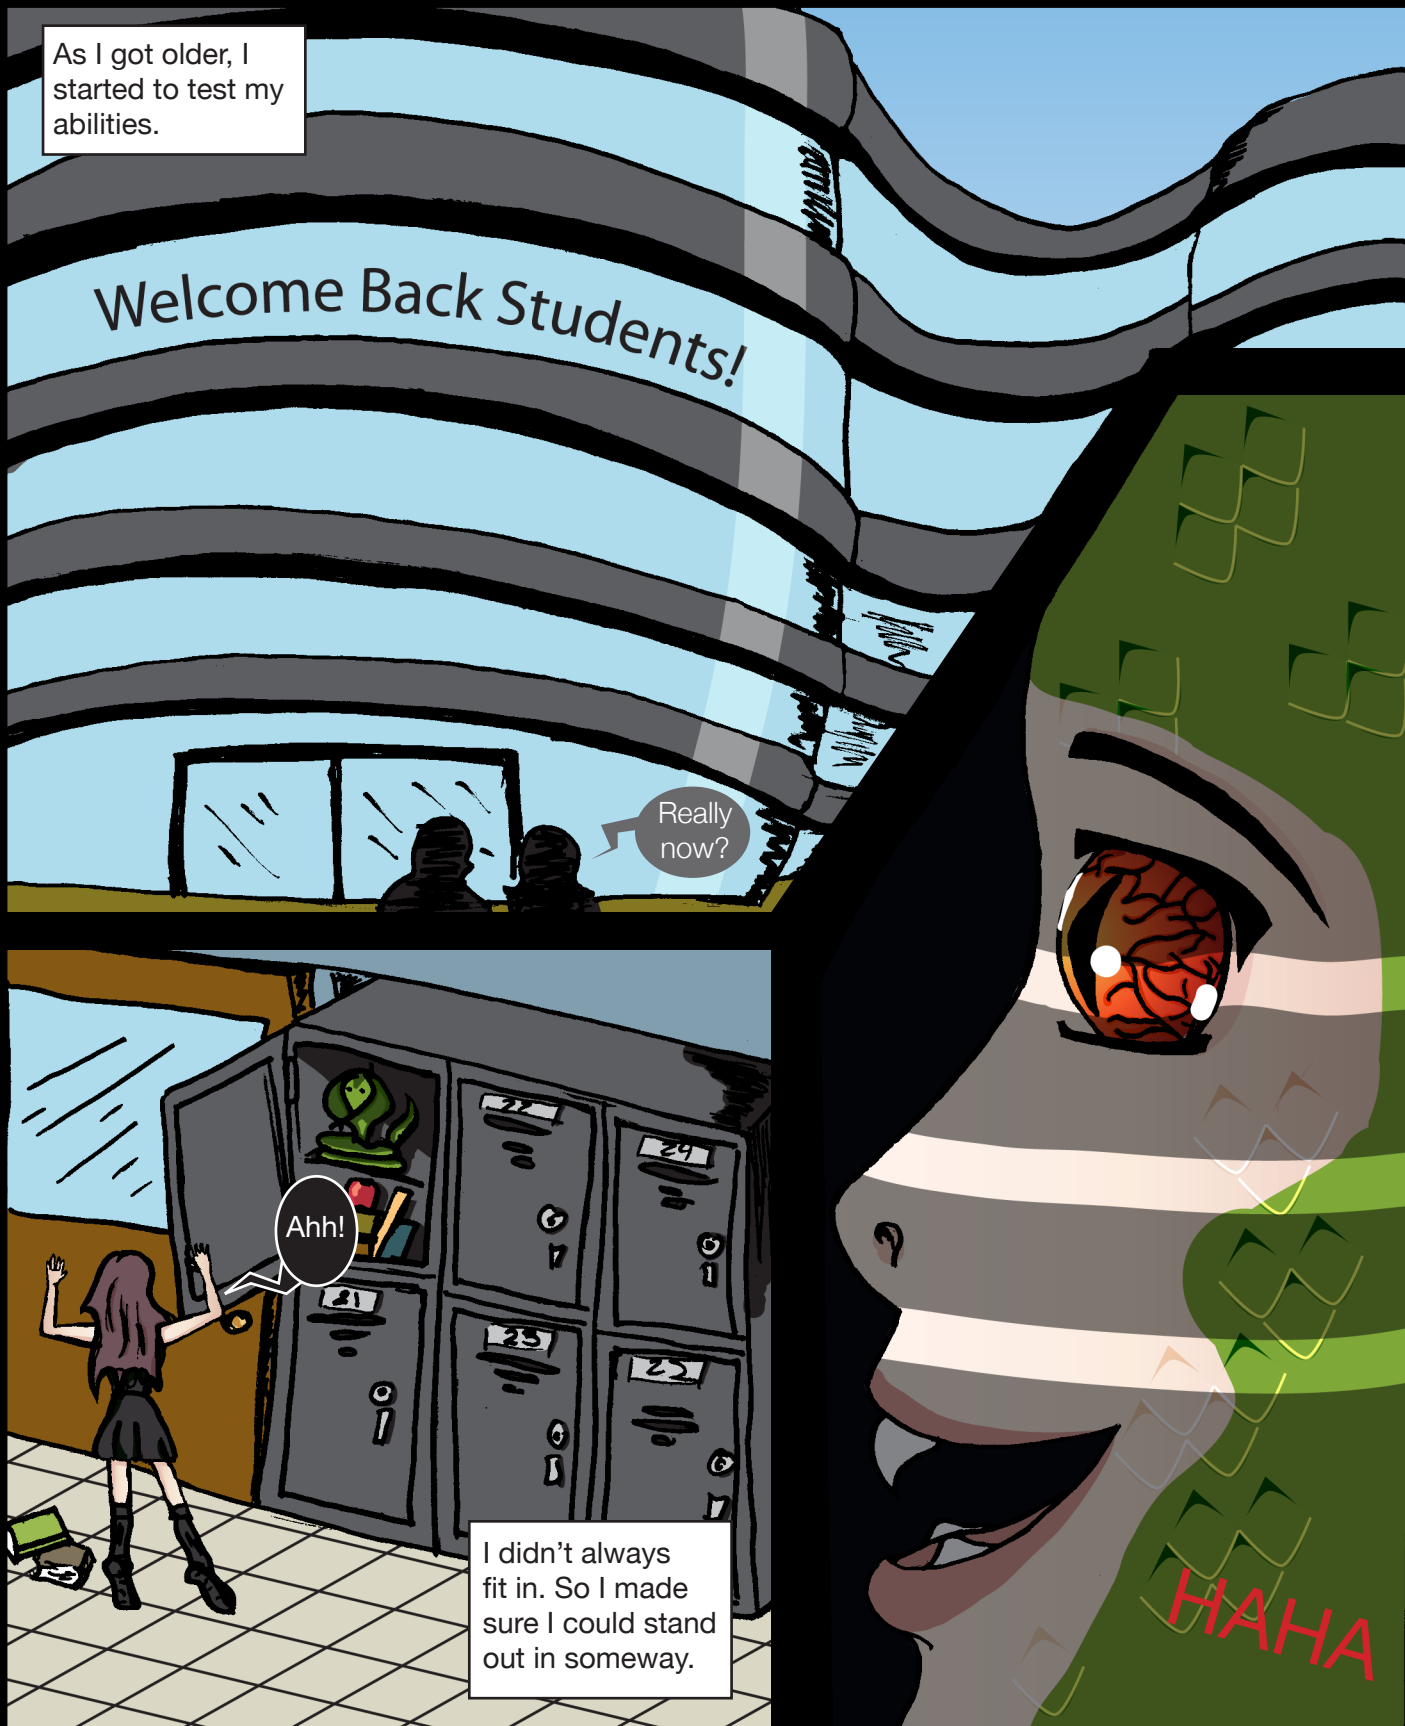

Welcome Back Students!

Really now?

Ahh!

I didn't always fit in. So I made sure I could stand out in some way.

HAHA

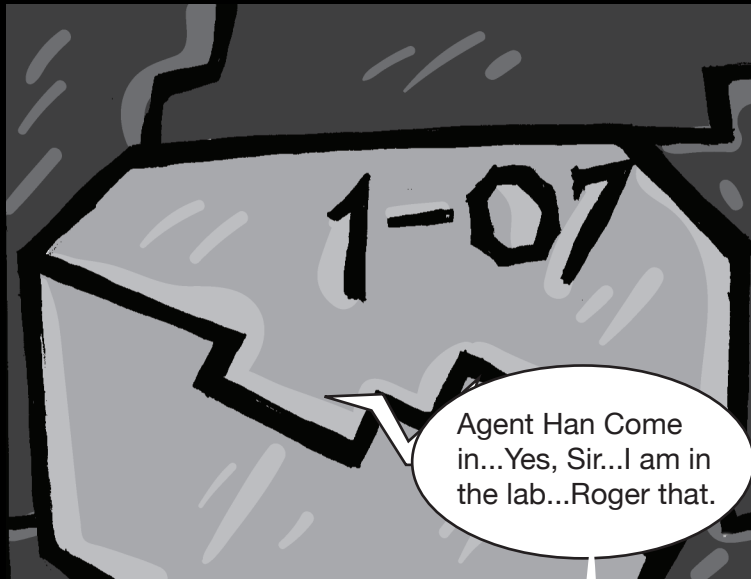

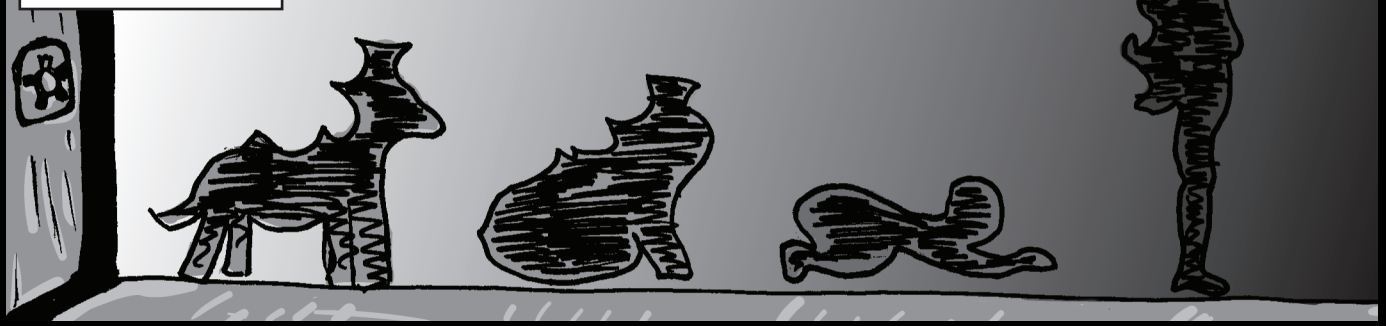

I realized I was different and that there was nothing wrong with that.

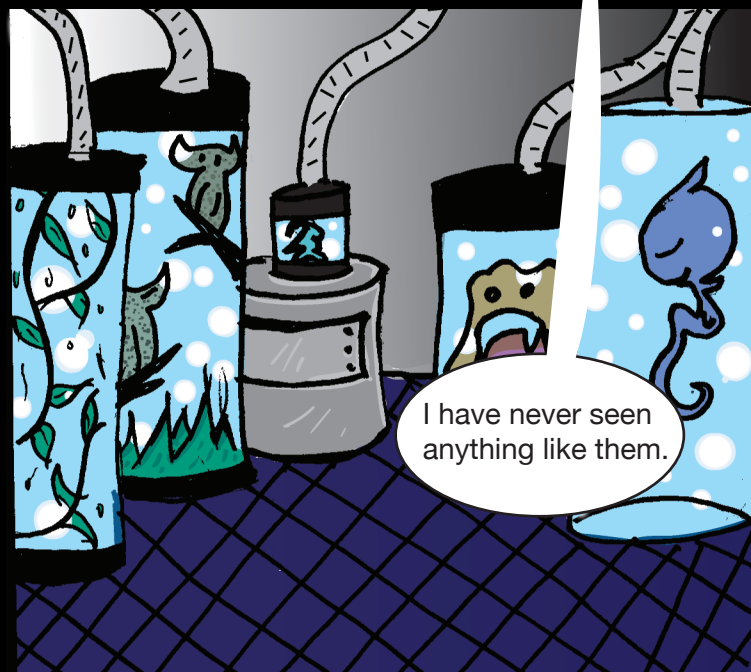

Beep
Beep

I later joined an organization where I could be myself. I fit right in and I knew it was where I belonged.

Now where were we?..Oh right....

Agent Han Come in...Yes, Sir...I am in the lab...Roger that.

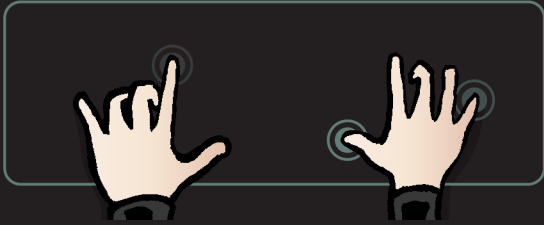

I have never seen anything like them.

Someone please save me

Well this should be easy.....

Or not...crap they must have known I was here, but then why let me get this far?

Something weird is happening and I need to know what it is.

The Story Has Begun

Order your 3D Sara Lockhart model today!

See the rest of the story at http://dorofy_winckel.cias.rit.edu

and follow virtualtomorrow on Instagram